They control and represent an unlimited amount of capital which will be invested in factories of this nature at points possessing came down town immediately and favorable opportunities.

This morning these gentlemen. accompanied by Colonel Cody, started out to look over the country, test the soil, and make such investigations as necessary, one of the gentlemen having had experience in the growing of beets and the manufacture of sugar in Hungary. The party will return this afternoon, and if they find the country offers the proper inducements for locating a factory a meeting of the business men will be called for this evening or to-morrow. At this meeting the gentlemen will submit which is not definitely known to the writer other than that they will ask no bonus, but will expect the people of the city to take a reasonable amount of stock in the factory, and also use their efforts in having the farmers raise a sufficient quantity pondingly cheap. of beets to keep the factory running

THEO D. MARCH.

This is very easy answered. When you get them down they always squeal. That is just exactly what's the matter with some of our would-be competitors. We've got 'em down, and very bad, too, and are tramping the supreme stuffing out of them. This you can readily see by the attacks they have made upon us the past three weeks in the city papers, but we are iron clad and can stand it all. WE ARE ON THE SOLID ROCK AND THERE TO STAY, while some of our would be competitors are on sinking sand and are slowly and gradually, but surely, sinking away. They have made their last great and mighty attempt to leap out upon the top of that solid rock, but all in vain; they have fallen back back and are lying all crushed and bleeding, and are dying a slow and horrible death. Poor fellows! We feel sorry for you, for we like to see all do well. Your goods may be some gold-filled watch, of standard all right, but your head is not. Your ways won't go here. Better move down on south Clark street, Chicago; you'd be old persimmons there; there you can split Brill is anxious to advertise the college, cotton batts, make two out of one; there you can split double width goods, make two yards of one; there you can also accuse your competitors, that you are bucking so hard, of selling shoddy clothing—clothing that has been moved around for six years. You can do anything there, your ways are all right for that class of people, for they don't know A from B; all they know is to stand and wrangle and jew you down. There the business is carried on on the get-all you-can style and ask-you-five-dollars-what-will-you-give system, but that don't go in this western country; might as well give it up, they are all on to you, your cake is dough, for when the people want good, reliable goods, such as to run them down. I admit having heard many serious umors afloat last week about the bank but did not have any lengthy conversarumors with any one excepting with an old gentleman friend who spends a great deal of his time in my office and who money in any bank and any thing that might have said to him could not have burt any institution, as our conversation took place four or five days before the bank closed.

It has been said that I am a "minion" of the First National Bank and that many still look upon me as a competitor kindly feeling for that financial institution, wherein I spent five very pleasant years of my life, they have now no over me, as many imagine. I most emphatically deny that I have ever had any hostile feeling against the North overtaken it.
